registration & lunch 13:00

As opposed to other energy sectors, final energy consumption of the European transport sector has continuously increased over the last decade. Despite having a very innovative transport industry investing a lot in research and development with policies designed to foster the shift towards energy efficient and renewable energy carriers, the transport sector is still strongly based on fossil fuels. During this workshop, the SET-Nav consortium aims to answer the question: what measures can be put in place to accelerate the transition of the transport sector towards a low-carbon system that can additionally provide further flexibility option with regards to the energy sector?

The SET-Nav (www.set-nav.eu) project has the overarching goal of supporting strategic decision making in Europe's energy sector, enhancing innovation towards a clean, secure and efficient energy system, financed by the European Commission's EU Horizon 2020 programme. Several bottom-up case studies are assessed as part of the project, defined to deal with definitive policy related questions of technology development in specific fields and this workshop will present results from the case study on ways to a cleaner and smarter transport sector.
